

Highlights of Success

Sosh Architects was working with a client, The Showboat Casino in Atlantic City, who was tired of dealing with the ongoing maintenance issues with their cove lighting in the new bus lobby. The cold cathode and fluorescent lighting, while bright, were requiring ongoing maintenance. Penn Lighting of PA presented the designers with White Plexineon as a potential solution.

Plexineon was selected to replace the high-maintenance fluorescent lighting. It was selected because it is a low maintenance LED system and because of Plexineon's durable plastic construction. The designers used White Plexineon in the cove. As a result, the client received a better, lower maintenance product with the desired lighting affect.

The Brunswick School, a college preparatory day school in Greenwich, CT, recently expanded their campus on King Street to include a new Lower School. The designer, Skidmore, Owings & Merrill (SOM), wanted to add a lighting accent to the beams and worked with architectural representative, Lighting Affiliates of CT with the new White Plexineon product.

The new multipurpose room has seven wooden beams that run the length the building ceiling. The designers recessed one row of 6500K White Plexineon in each beam. Additionally, the two wings have White Plexineon, making a total of 1000 linear feet for the project.

Plexineon Perfect for Public Areas

Prudential Lighting, iLight's representatives in Los Angeles, with lighting designers, PBQA, have designed 1000 linear feet of 6500°K White Plexineon into seatwall benches for the Las Vegas Parkway.

iLight's Plexineon is a versatile product and can be used on buildings as exterior trim and interior cove lighting; but Plexineon also makes a wonderful lighting option for outdoor public seating for public areas.
